Subject: HOTSITE REPORT: Final Update - Water Emergency in Louisa County, VA

OSC Wagner reports that the Town of Louisa removed the "DO NOT USE" water restriction this afternoon following two rounds of testing for volatile organic contaminants and petroleum compounds. The Virginia Department of Health approved the testing results and determined the water is safe to drink.

Louisa officials concluded that any vapors that may have been trapped in the water distribution system were likely removed during last night's flushing operation. Over the weekend, Louisa County will continue to closely monitor the water and to investigate the source of the vapors. All operations have returned to normal. No additional EPA assistance is expected.
